CHARLES COUGHLIN

Charles Coughlin (1891-1979) was a student at St. Michael's College before being ordained a Catholic priest. He had a regular Sunday programme from 1926 to 1941 in which he spoke not only about the Catholic faith, but also about politics and economics. His opposition to United States involvement in World War II led to the United States government threatening to charge him with sedition; Coughlin therefore ceased public broadcasts.

Religious broadcasting is the dissemination of television and/or radio content that intentionally has religious ideas, religious experience, or religious practice as its core focus. In some countries, religious broadcasting developed primarily within the context of public service provision (as in the UK), whilst in others, it has been driven more by religious organisations themselves (as in the USA). Across Europe and in the US and Canada, religious broadcasting began in the earliest days of radio EWTN Global Catholic Radio Network, join us all week for our solid Catholic radio line-up programming.
