The Arenal area is home to the most picturesque volcano in Costa Rica. Long dormant, Arenal erupted in July, 1968 and has been active since. Prior to this, the last eruption is thought to have been around 1,500 AD. The volcano is approximately 3,000 years old and has an elevation of 5,500 feet. With its many protected areas, lakes, lagoons, volcanoes, rivers and waterfalls, the Arenal Area is undergoing a boom in tourism service and adventure site development. It’s the perfect location for nature-loving visitors to enjoy the region’s many riches. The Arenal area features forests as well as fertile plains natural environments that serve as sanctuaries for water birds, reptiles, and mammals. Adventure activities and nature-watching may be enjoyed on the region’s rivers Peñas Blancas, Cano Negro, Balsa, and Sarapiquí some of which are important navigational routes. The area is rich in natural attractions: experience thermo-mineral hot springs, waterfall hikes, horseback riding, bird watching, and white water rafting.
